Essential question

How do we speak calmly about birth and death?

Source

BG 2.22 — teaching meaning: As a person puts on new garments, giving up old ones, the embodied self similarly accepts new bodies, giving up old ones — taught calmly, without fear tactics for children.

Discussion

One realistic household tension; no compelled confession.

Application

5–15 minute cue; minimum version counts.

Privacy

No public scoring of sādhana.

P01 — Private reflection — how we talk about death

Parents remain onsite. Facilitators guide the session. Host property rules also apply.

Shared rules (all ages)

1. Keep your body safe — feet on the floor; hands gentle.
2. Use respectful speech — no teasing, yelling, or mean labels.
3. Follow the facilitator safety cue immediately (pause / freeze / come here).
4. No jumping on furniture.
5. No indoor throwing.
6. No writing on walls, books, or furniture that are not activity materials.
7. Ask before entering private rooms.
8. Respect belongings — ask before touching what is not yours.
9. Devices away unless the lesson specifically needs them.
10. Snack only in the allowed area; water anytime with permission.
11. Help clean up before leaving.

Correction ladder (no public shame)

1. Calm reminder
2. Redirect / offer a choice
3. Brief quiet reset in a visible space
4. Parent involvement
5. Sit out a specific activity
6. Private parent/program conversation for repeated patterns

Never: public shame, yelling, sarcasm, corporal punishment, forced chanting, or comparing children.

Younger (K–2) emphasis

- Soft voices indoors
- Stay with the group
- Hands to yourself
- Ask before leaving the room

Older (Grades 4–5) emphasis

- Model respectful speech for younger children
- Devices fully away unless assigned

- Help clean-up leadership
- Honest questions welcome; speculation wait for source check

Week: Birth, Death and Reincarnation Primary: BG 2.22 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/> Cycle contribution: Family calm-speech card for life-change conversations

This week's artifact

Families produce: Family calm-speech card for life-change conversations.

Success looks like

- Uses this week's primary source honestly
- Names the care boundary: Age-sensitive death talk; no frightening imagery; no unsupported past-life anecdotes.
- Fits on one page or one small craft
- Can be explained in ≤60 seconds at reunification or W6

Integration note

Save the artifact toward the cycle integration night (W6).

Rubric (noncompetitive)

Lens	Look for
Source	Mentions primary verse or theme
Clarity	Child/adult can explain in plain words
Kindness	No ranking / no diagnosis of others
Practice	Names one home action

Week Home Practice

Week: Birth, Death and Reincarnation Primary: BG 2.22 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>

Memory line: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self.

Minimum (before next Saturday)

Memory line once + one calm gratitude sentence for life/care.

Five minutes counts. No ranking. No photo proof required.

Ideal (5–15 minutes)

1. Say the memory line once together.
2. Paraphrase the primary in one family sentence.
3. Do one related gratitude/service/attention act tied to this week's conclusion: The clothing analogy teaches continuity with limits; families speak with calm dignity, not fear.

Optional conversation cue

Essential question: How do we speak calmly about birth and death?

Do not

- Rank families or children
- Diagnose others' karma/modes/destinations
- Invent doctrine beyond this week's sources

Objective

Children can say and show: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self — gently, without fear.

Exact memory phrase

Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self.

Teacher background (2 minutes, before children arrive)

- Primary: BG 2.22 — As a person puts on new garments, giving up old ones, the embodied self similarly accepts new bodies, giving up old ones — taught calmly, without fear tactics for children.
(<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>)
- Block: scare pedagogy; ghost talk; funeral role-play; scary pictures; “choosing bodies from a closet.”
- Do not teach adult debates, destinations of deceased relatives, or graphic death.
- If a child mentions a recent death, acknowledge kindly (“That is sad. We can remember them with love.”) and return to the gentle lesson. Do not diagnose.
- Snack later with whole group only; water okay if needed.

Minute-by-minute lesson

Minutes	Block	What you do
0–3	Welcome + seated circle	Soft voice; “kind words only”; show calm clothes/doll visual — no scary images
3–8	Memory phrase echo	You say half; they finish; two joyful rounds max
8–16	Story script	Read/tell the gentle story below; ask one wonder question
16–23	Movement game	Soft Clothes Walk (rules below)
23–33	Hands-on + craft	Doll/clothes object lesson + take-home card
33–37	Coloring	`visuals/V12/line-art-younger.svg` (calm scene only)
37–40	Cleanup + door handoff	Tell parent the memory phrase + three-night bedtime cue

Age-appropriate story script (5–8 min) — gentle; no gore

Once there was a soft doll who wore a yellow shirt. The doll was still the same doll when the yellow shirt was folded away and a blue shirt was put on. The doll did not disappear. The clothes changed.

Kṛṣṇa teaches something kind: we are not only our clothes-of-the-body. When a body grows from little to bigger — like baby clothes to bigger clothes — we are still us. Someday bodies finish their work, the way worn clothes are set aside. The person Kṛṣṇa knows continues. We do not need to be afraid in this room. Tonight we practice kind words and remembering Kṛṣṇa with a calm heart.

Rules: no invented deity dialogue; no frightening detail; no funerals, hospitals, blood, ghosts, or “dying games.” Stop at the moral: bodies change like clothes; we speak calmly; we remember Kṛṣṇa gently.

Three wonder questions

1. What stayed the same when the doll’s clothes changed?
2. Whom can we remember with kindness this week?
3. When could our family remember Kṛṣṇa for one minute before sleep?

Movement game (5–7 min) — Soft Clothes Walk — C2-W3

1. Children walk gently in a circle holding (or pretending to hold) a soft scarf “shirt.”
2. When you say “Change!”, they pause and fold the scarf to their heart (no throwing).
3. You say the first half of the memory phrase; they finish it.
4. Two rounds only; then sit. Redirect: “Feet on the floor. Kind words only. Soft bodies.”

Hands-on object lesson (8–10 min) — Doll / clothes

Object: One classroom doll (or paper doll) + two simple outfits or colored paper shirts. Steps:

1. Teacher shows doll in outfit A: “This is the same friend.”
2. Change to outfit B slowly: “Clothes changed. Friend is still here.”
3. Children say: “The doll stays. The clothes change.”
4. Secure ending: “Our bodies change too. We speak kindly. We remember Kṛṣṇa.”

Never: “Now the doll dies.” Never closet-shopping for “next life animals.”

Craft (8–10 min)

Clothes-card: Fold a card. Outside: draw a simple shirt. Inside: write or sticker the memory phrase. Optional: glue a tiny fabric scrap. Children take it home to look at before bedtime remembrance.

Coloring / line-art

Color ../visuals/V12/line-art-younger.svg. Title the page with C2-W3. If the art is unclear, children draw a calm shirt and a smiling child praying — no graves, no ghosts.

Sanskrit exposure (optional, 1 min)

Softly invite hearing one word from the verse: dehī (the embodied self) — or simply Kṛṣṇa / Hare. Never forced volume.

Behavior redirects

- “Feet on the floor.”
- “Kind words only.”
- “That toy rests for now.”

- “We use soft voices about bodies.”
- Quiet reset in visible space if needed (parents onsite).

Backup low-prep (if craft or doll fails)

Sit in a circle; pass a soft scarf; each child says one kind word; end with memory phrase echo twice.

Extension

Helper role: hand out crayons / collect papers / hold the “calm scarf.”

Materials

Printed line art; crayons; memory cards; soft scarf; doll or paper doll + two outfits/paper shirts; card stock; tape; fabric scrap optional.

Cleanup / handoff

3 minutes cleanup. At door: tell parent the memory phrase and: “Please try one-minute bedtime remembrance on three nights.”

Home-practice explanation to parents

“Please say the memory phrase once and do one calm minute of remembrance before bed on three nights. Soft language only — no scare stories.”

Objective

Students explain, calmly and without scare tactics: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self, anchored in BG 2.22 (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>), and reject the fatalism that “nothing matters if we reincarnate.”

Essential question

How do we speak calmly about birth and death?

Teacher background (2 minutes private prep)

- Primary: BG 2.22 — garment analogy for transmigration.
- Supports (recognition, not new lectures): BG 2.13, 2.20, 2.27; BG 8.5–8.6 for remembrance direction; BG 14.14–15 recognition only (modes arrive C2-W4).
- KUTUMBA teaching meaning (not a BBT translation label): As a person puts on new garments, giving up old ones, the embodied self similarly accepts new bodies, giving up old ones — taught calmly, without fear tactics for children.
- Block: scare pedagogy; diagnosing a deceased person’s destination; ghost speculation; “closet shopping” for the next body; reincarnation used to excuse present duty.
- Privacy: no forced disclosure of personal grief; anonymous questions only.

Minute-by-minute

Minutes	Block	What you do
0–5	Hook	Read essential question; students write a one-line first answer privately
5–15	Text observation	Open BG 2.22 on VedaBase; complete observation task below
15–22	Diagram	Label garment → body continuity map; fill the limit box
22–30	Scenario cards	Pairs work Cases 1–3 (bedtime / funeral language / teen fatalism)
30–36	Worksheet + matching puzzle	Complete sections A–B of `activities/OLDER-ACTIVITY-PACK.md`
36–40	Reflection + reunification line	One calm sentence for the 3:10 family share

Primary text observation (10 min)

Open <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>. Students write on the observation half-sheet:

1. Who is teaching whom in Bhagavad-gītā Chapter 2 (keep non-graphic)?
2. Which comparison (garments) does the verse use?
3. One phrase that signals continuity of the embodied self.
4. One-sentence paraphrase in their own words (not a long dump).
5. One thing this verse does not say (examples: does not say we shop for bodies; does not say frighten children; does not assign destinations).

Target paraphrase to check against: As a person puts on new garments, giving up old ones, the embodied self similarly accepts new bodies, giving up old ones — taught calmly, without fear tactics for children.

Optional skim only if a student finishes early: <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/13/> and <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/6/> — note continuity and remembrance direction without expanding into modes.

Worksheet questions (align with activity pack)

1. State this week's conclusion in one sentence.
2. Write the primary scripture reference.
3. Paraphrase BG 2.22 in your words.
4. Name one misconception to avoid.
5. Write one family action for the next seven days that includes bedtime remembrance.
6. Answer the essential question in two or three calm sentences.

Grade with activities/OLDER-ANSWER-KEY.md.

Scenario cards (use these prompts; full fields live in MAIN + research/CASE-STUDIES.md)

Card A — Bedtime question. A younger sibling asks, "What happens when someone dies?" while lights are out. Mistaken path: either silence from fear or a graphic lecture. Better path: two calm sentences + offer to sit with a parent for remembrance.

Card B — Funeral language. At a gathering, an adult says the deceased "must have had bad karma." Mistaken path: diagnose destination. Better path: dignity, grief respect, no private karmic verdicts.

Card C — Teen fatalism. "If we just get another body, nothing we do matters." Mistaken path: excuse duty. Better path: continuity raises the stakes of consciousness and choice; connect lightly to next week's modes only if asked, then defer.

Pairs: name mistaken conclusion → compassionate response → one action → what not to say.

Matching puzzle / game (real steps)

1. Print activities/OLDER-ACTIVITY-PACK.md section B as two cut columns (Term / Meaning).
2. Shuffle meaning cards.
3. Students match in pairs within four minutes.
4. Check against answer key together once — no ranking of speed.
5. If time remains, complete scramble section C as a silent desk check.

Terms: dehī; garment analogy; remembrance; analogy limit.

Diagram task

On board or printed frame:

- Worn garment → set aside
- New garment → accepted
- Embodied self (dehī) → continues
- Limit box: Not choosing from a closet / not ghost speculation / not destination diagnosis

Draw one arrow showing the week's conclusion: the self continues; teach calmly.

Project contribution

Advance project/CYCLE-CONTRIBUTION.md for C2-W3: produce one “calm speech card” or bedtime-cue poster that families may use at home. No competitive scoring.

Reflection (2 min)

“Where might someone confuse the clothes analogy with ‘picking a next body,’ and how do we correct that kindly?”

Extension

If a student finishes early: write a two-sentence answer to “Why should present choices matter if the soul continues?” using BG 2.22 continuity + responsibility (without importing C2-W4 modes as tonight’s main lesson).

Answer key pointer

Use activities/OLDER-ANSWER-KEY.md for worksheet, matching, scramble, and scenario grading criteria.

Boundaries and handoff

- No gore, no ghost entertainment as doctrine, no forced grief stories.
- BG 14.14–15: recognition only — full modes next week (C2-W4).
- Science may inform calm speech pedagogy only — never prove transmigration.
- At 3:10, bring students to reunification with one calm sentence; parents receive the bedtime-remembrance home cue (three nights minimum).

Two-minute summary

Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self — taught calmly, with hope, never with fear tactics. Primary: BG 2.22 (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>). Essential question: How do we speak calmly about birth and death?

Essential question

How do we speak calmly about birth and death?

15-minute night-before prep

1. Open <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/> and reread Devanāgarī, IAST, and KUTUMBA teaching meaning below.
2. Rehearse the speaking script section aloud once (aim for clear 12–18 minute delivery with pauses). Soften your voice; this week triggers grief for some families.
3. Pack younger materials (doll/clothes set or paper doll; no scary images) and older worksheets.
4. Review blocks: scare pedagogy; diagnosing deceased destinations; ghost speculation; “choosing next body from a closet.”
5. Confirm snack/water only (no weekly meal); parents onsite; privacy reminder visible.
6. Pre-write home-practice card: one-minute bedtime remembrance on three nights.

60-minute deep prep

1. Read the inlined analogies, examples, and three cases in this guide until you can teach them without notes.
2. Mark which discovery / understanding / application questions you will actually ask.
3. Choose one analogy (worn clothes) and one case (bedtime question or funeral language) as your “must teach” pair; keep the others ready for Q&A.
4. Walk the room: parent circle, younger zone (calm visuals only), older zone, reunification seats.
5. Rehearse the bhakti lab: Bedtime Remembrance Routine (one minute).
6. Review deferral line: laboratory methods measure bodies/behavior; transmigration is a śāstra conclusion — no false science proof.
7. Skim project/CYCLE-CONTRIBUTION.md for this week’s artifact layer.
8. Optional enrichment only (not a substitute for this guide): research folder files.
9. If a family is in acute grief, plan to offer private space and no forced participation — never call them out publicly.

10–20 minute speaking script (deliverable prose)

Facilitation note: Speak calmly. Pause for the 20-second pair share. Soften language around death. Do not replace this with a research-file deferral. No graphic imagery. No diagnosing anyone's next destination.

Friends, welcome to Cycle 2, Week 3: Birth, Death, and Reincarnation.

Some of us come tonight with curiosity. Some come with grief. Some come with children's bedtime questions that arrive at the wrong hour. We will teach with calm hope. We will not frighten anyone into devotion, and we will not turn this room into a ghost forum.

Our essential question is: How do we speak calmly about birth and death?

Please open with me the primary verse: Bhagavad-gītā 2.22. The stable link is <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>. I will not read a full purport into the room. I will give our KUTUMBA teaching meaning — an original classroom paraphrase, not labeled as a BBT translation:

“As a person puts on new garments, giving up old ones, the embodied self similarly accepts new bodies, giving up old ones — taught calmly, without fear tactics for children.”

Say that back in your own words to the person beside you for twenty seconds — softly.

Here is the conclusion I want every facilitator and parent to be able to repeat: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self — teach without fear.

Notice what the verse is doing. It does not say the person disappears. It does not say the body is the self. It says the embodied self (dehī) continues while garments — bodies — are given up and accepted. That is transmigration taught as continuity, not as a horror story.

From Cycle 1 we already practiced: the body changes through childhood, youth, and old age, yet the self continues (BG 2.13 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/13/>). Tonight we take the next step: the same continuity that holds across life stages also holds across births. BG 2.20 steadies us further: the self is not destroyed when the body ends (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/20/>). BG 2.27 adds sobriety without scare: birth and death are certain for embodied life (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/27/>). We name these calmly the way we name that night follows day — not to terrify children.

Let me make this concrete with worn clothes. When a shirt becomes too small or worn, a person sets it aside and accepts another. The wearer continues. That is pedagogy for continuity. The limit must be said out loud: you do not pick your next body from a closet like shopping. Desire, karma, and the Lord's arrangement are not a costume rack. Analogies help; they are not the verse.

Third analogy, especially for younger rooms: a doll changing clothes. The doll remains; outfits change. Limit: dolls are toys; living beings are not dolls. Never let children role-play dying or funerals with the doll.

Now a household picture. Imagine a child at bedtime asks, “Will I die?” The tempting response is either silence that feels like fear, or a frightening lecture about hell and ghosts. We reject both. The compassionate response is: “Your body will change someday, like clothes. You are the person Kṛṣṇa knows. Right now we are safe. Let’s remember Him for one minute and sleep.” That is hope, not scare pedagogy.

Supporting readings you may skim this week:

- BG 2.13 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/13/> — life-stage continuity.
- BG 2.20 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/20/> — the self is not slain.
- BG 2.27 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/27/> — birth and death are certain; teach sobriety, not terror.
- BG 8.5–8.6 — <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/5/> and <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/6/> — remembrance at the end matters; therefore we practice remembrance now, gently, at bedtime.
- BG 14.14–14.15 — recognition only: modes affect destination — full teaching is next week (C2-W4).

Devotional pattern: In Bhagavad-gītā Chapter 2, Kṛṣṇa instructs Arjuna on the battlefield about the eternal self changing bodies (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/>). We borrow the teaching intent — steadiness of the self — without inventing dialogue, without graphic war detail for children, and without pretending our living room equals Kurukṣetra.

A second sourced emphasis: BG 8.5–8.6 teach that the consciousness remembered at the end shapes direction. Classroom use: we practice short, calm remembrance now so remembrance is not foreign later. We do not claim we can diagnose where a deceased relative “went.”

In a moment we will split into tracks. Parents stay to practice calm funeral language and bedtime scripts. Younger friends meet a gentle doll-and-clothes story — no gore. Older students observe BG 2.22 and answer a fatalism challenge: “If we reincarnate, nothing matters.” We reunite at 3:10 for the Bedtime Remembrance Routine lab.

Memory line: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self.

Let me teach one full case out loud so you can copy the pattern at home.

Situation: A six-year-old, lights out, asks, “Will Grandma come back as a baby? Will I die tonight?” Tempting mistaken conclusion: Either frighten them into “being good,” or invent a destination map for Grandma.

Principle and source: BG 2.22 — the self continues through changing bodies; teach calmly (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/>). BG 8.6 — practice remembrance; do not diagnose (<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/6/>). Compassionate response: Affirm the question is brave. Affirm safety tonight. Offer one-minute remembrance. Offer a hug. Offer to talk more in the morning with a trusted adult. Family action: Three nights this week — one-minute bedtime remembrance (mahā-mantra once or short approved hearing + one gratitude). What not to say: If you’re bad you’ll come back as... / Grandma is a ghost in the house / Let’s pick which body she got.

Second analogy again with its limit: Life-stage photos — same person across ages. Limit: Photos illustrate continuity of change; they do not prove ātman.

Third: Doll changing clothes — continuity of the doll through outfits. Limit: Not ontology; not a game about death; for K–2 only as a gentle object lesson.

Second sourced example: Remembrance practice from BG 8.5–8.6 — consciousness at the end matters, so families practice calm remembrance now. Paraphrase only; no invented purport lines. Links:

<https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/5/> · <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/6/>

Before we split tracks, recite with me:

- Essential question: How do we speak calmly about birth and death?
- Conclusion: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self — teach without fear.
- Misconceptions to block: scare pedagogy; diagnosing destinations; ghost speculation; closet-shopping for bodies.
- Primary: BG 2.22

Parents: your job in the parent circle is not to solve metaphysics tonight. It is to leave with a calm sentence for funerals, a bedtime script, and a one-minute cue for three nights.

We do not claim human, temple, or publication approval. We do not dump full purports. We do not invent quotations. We keep Saturday 1:50–4:00, snack and water only, parents onsite, and private grief private.

That is the heart of tonight’s teaching. Let us practice it gently.

Analogies with limits (inline — teach from here)

1. Worn clothes / new garments

- Teaches: As worn garments are set aside and new ones accepted, the embodied self continues while bodies change (BG 2.22).
- Limit (say out loud): You do not choose the next body from a closet. Analogy ≠ shopping. Desire, karma, and the Lord’s arrangement are not a costume rack.

2. Life-stage photos (continuity)

- Teaches: Faces and sizes change across photos; the person is continuous — pedagogy for calm speech about change.
- Limit (say out loud): Photos do not prove the soul. They illustrate continuity through change; metaphysics rests on śāstra.

3. Doll changing clothes (K–2 object lesson)

- Teaches: The doll remains while outfits change — gentle entry for young children.
- Limit (say out loud): Living beings are not dolls. No funeral role-play. No “dying game.” Stop at continuity and kindness.

Scriptural and devotional examples (inline paraphrase)

1. Kṛṣṇa’s Chapter 2 instruction to Arjuna (battlefield teaching context)

- Provenance: Bhagavad-gītā Chapter 2, centered on BG 2.22 and nearby verses
- URL: <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/> (context: <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/>)
- Classroom paraphrase use: The Lord teaches that the embodied self continues while bodies change, so Arjuna should not be bewildered by bodily endings alone. Borrow steadiness and clarity — not graphic combat description for children; no invented dialogue.

2. Remembrance at the end (BG 8.5–8.6)

- Provenance: Bhagavad-gītā 8.5–8.6

- URLs: <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/5/> · <https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/6/>
- Classroom paraphrase use: Remembering the Lord at life's end points toward the Lord's nature; the state of consciousness remembered shapes direction. Therefore families practice short, calm remembrance now. Do not use these verses to diagnose a deceased person's destination.

Three constructed household cases (inline)

Constructed case 1 — Child bedtime question

Field	Content
Situation	A child at bedtime asks, "Will I die? Where did Grandpa go? Will he come back as a baby?"
Mistaken conclusion	Either scare the child into obedience, or invent a confident map of Grandpa's next body.
Principle	The self continues through changing bodies; speak calmly and practice remembrance — do not diagnose destinations.
Source	https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/ · https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/6/
Compassionate response	"That's a brave question. Your body changes over time, like clothes. You are still you. Grandpa's body finished this chapter; his self is in Kṛṣṇa's care. Tonight we are safe. Let's remember Kṛṣṇa for one minute."
Family action	One-minute bedtime remembrance for three nights this week (cue: after teeth brushing).
What not to say	If you're naughty you'll die soon / Grandpa is a ghost / He came back as that stray cat / Let's guess his next body.
Optional age adaptation	Ages 4–7: clothes/doll language only. Ages 8–10: add "we don't know every detail; we trust the Lord." Teens: invite their question without debate-as-dominance.

Constructed case 2 — Relative funeral language

Field	Content
Situation	At a relative's funeral or memorial, a well-meaning aunt loudly announces the deceased's precise next destination, or a cousin jokes about ghosts for the kids.
Mistaken conclusion	Public diagnosis of destination is devotion; ghost talk is harmless entertainment.
Principle	Speak with dignity and hope; leave destinations to the Lord and śāstra principles; protect children from scare and speculation.
Source	https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/20/ · https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/2/22/ · https://vedabase.io/en/library/bg/8/5/
Compassionate response	Privately redirect: "We honor them with remembrance and prayer. We don't announce destinations. Kids hear calm hope, not ghost shows."
Family action	Prepare two sentences before the next gathering: (1) honor line, (2) calm child line. Offer to step outside with a child who is overwhelmed.
What not to say	They definitely went to... / They're haunting the house / Kids should see the body to "toughen up."
Optional age adaptation	Younger: "We remember them kindly and pray." Older: "We can grieve and still trust the self continues — without guessing chapters."

Constructed case 3 — Teen fatalism ("nothing matters if we reincarnate")

Field	Content
Situation	A teen says, "If we just get another body, nothing matters. Why try? Why be responsible?"

Field	Content
Mistaken conclusion	Reincarnation cancels responsibility and meaning.
Principle	Continuity of the self increases the weight of consciousness and choice; remembrance and responsibility still matter (link forward to modes without teaching them fully).

Compassionate response	"If the self continues, then what we cultivate in consciousness matters even more — not less. Reincarnation is not a get-out-of-responsibility card."
Family action	Teen writes one sentence: "Because I continue, this week I will..." plus join one-minute remembrance three nights (or adult models if teen resists).
What not to say	You're going to hell / Don't think / Your doubt means you're faithless / Nothing you do matters until initiation.
Optional age adaptation	Grades 4–5: simpler — "The self continues, so kind choices still matter." Parents: connect to last week's free will without shaming.

Discovery questions

1. What word tonight (reincarnation / garments / remembrance / transmigration) is new or unclear?
2. Where have you seen fear language or ghost talk enter family conversations about death?
3. What would a one-minute bedtime minimum version look like in your home this week?

Understanding questions

1. State this week's conclusion in one sentence.
2. Name the primary scripture and restate the KUTUMBA teaching meaning in your own words.

3. What does this week not teach (scare pedagogy, destination diagnosis, ghost speculation, closet-shopping for bodies, full modes ontology)?

Application questions

1. What is our family cue (exact time + place) for the one-minute bedtime remembrance?
2. Who will start the practice if others are tired or grieving?
3. What is the minimum version on a hard night (one mahā-mantra + one gratitude)?

Five likely Q&A

Question	Source-based direction
Can science prove reincarnation?	No empirical claim is required for this week's doctrinal conclusion. Developmental psychology may inform how we speak calmly to children; it does not prove transmigration. Doctrine rests on śāstra (BG 2.22).
What do we tell a child who asks where Grandpa went?	Affirm care and continuity of the self; refuse destination diagnosis; offer remembrance and safety tonight (BG 2.22; BG 8.5–8.6).
Isn't talking about death too heavy for kids?	Age-appropriate calm speech prevents fear filling the silence. Use clothes/doll language for K–2; no gore; no forced participation if a child is grieving.
If we reincarnate, why does this life matter?	Continuity raises the importance of consciousness and responsibility (BG 8.6; link to C2-W2 choice). Fatalism is a mistaken conclusion.
Should we discuss modes of nature and destinations tonight?	Recognition only for BG 14.14–14.15. Full modes teaching is C2-W4 (BG 14.5). Do not import next week's ontology early.

Misconceptions to block

- Scare pedagogy (frightening children “into being good”)
- Diagnosing deceased persons' destinations
- Ghost speculation as entertainment or doctrine
- Choosing the next body from a closet (analogy abuse)
- Confusing analogy with scripture quotation
- Claiming science proves or disproves transmigration
- Importing full C2-W4 modes ontology early

- Ranking families’ “advancement” by how they grieve
- False human, temple, CPO, or publication approval labels

What not to speculate about

- Invented quotations, purport dumps, or unverified lecture lines
- Private medical or spiritual diagnoses of families or the deceased
- Guarantees of a particular next birth
- Graphic death, funeral gore, or horror imagery — especially for Lāla–Lālī
- Ghost hauntings, possession entertainment, or “past-life identity” parties
- Guarantees of advancement, initiation, or certification

Track transition (say at ~2:28)

Parents remain in the parent circle. Younger friends go with [younger teacher] for a gentle clothes-and-doll lesson — no scary pictures. Older students go with [older teacher]. We reunite at 3:10 for the Bedtime Remembrance lab. We do not rank groups.

Family reunification synthesis (3:10–3:30)

Bhakti laboratory — Bedtime Remembrance Routine (demo ~5–7 min)

1. Choose a fixed cue: device charging, teeth brushing, or entering the bedroom.
2. Sit or stand safely before a sacred space or a clean image.
3. Chant the mahā-mantra once slowly, or hear a short approved recording.
4. Name one gratitude and one request for remembrance.
5. End without lecture, without forced tears, without extending into debate.

Invite one sentence per family tied to the essential question:

“This week we will speak calmly about birth and death by...”

Accept drawings or whispered parent sentences for shy children. No scoreboard. Grieving families may pass.

Project contribution

Advance the Cycle 2 cumulative project using project/CYCLE-CONTRIBUTION.md. This week’s layer must connect to BG 2.22 and calm speech / remembrance practice. Store artifacts for Week 6 integration. Non-competitive.

Home practice (5–15 minutes; minimum is one minute × three nights)

1. Say the memory line once: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self.
2. Paraphrase BG 2.22 in one family sentence (calm tone).
3. Complete the one-minute bedtime remembrance on three nights this week.
4. Minimum version if exhausted or grieving: one mahā-mantra + one gratitude only.

Next-week preview

Name only: C2-W4 — The Three Modes of Material Nature (primary BG 14.5). Do not teach modes ontology in depth tonight. BG 14.14–14.15 stay at recognition only.

Do not claim

Human/temple/CPO approval; publication readiness; BBT ownership of KUTUMBA teaching meanings; science proving transmigration; ranking results; guaranteed spiritual outcomes; knowledge of any specific person's next destination.

Misconceptions and no-speculation boundaries

- Do not invent dialogue for scriptural persons.
- Do not diagnose private karma or modes as insults in the room.
- Do not claim temple/BBT/human approval that has not been given.
- Defer off-scope questions with the standard deferral line.

I will verify that from Śrīla Prabhupāda’s books / our source packet and come back to you.”

Memory line: Birth and death are changes of dress for the eternal self. Misconception to block: Scare pedagogy; diagnosing destinations; ghost speculation; closet-shopping for bodies. Care boundary: Age-sensitive death talk; no frightening imagery; no unsupported past-life anecdotes.

Room / Material / Snack / Cleanup Checklist

Done	Area	Check
☐	Room	Parent circle, younger floor zone, older table zone, clear aisles
